MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the DAFC is to stimulate quality economic development that expands and diversifies the tax base, provides quality jobs, retains existing businesses, and sustains the quality of life for residents throughout Fulton County.

Driving Economic Empowerment

CHAIRMAN'S VIEW

To Our Partners and Supporters,

As markets were thawing out from the COVID-19 pandemic in 2022, businesses and developers were turning to Fulton County—and I'm pleased to report to the Development Authority of Fulton County—as one of the best alternatives for making investments and remodeling their operations to thrive under new norms.

Our successful year included $615.4 million in projects funded and $1.3 billion in bond inducements, as well as a queue of not-yet-completed economic development opportunities—indicators of prospective projects in the pipeline.

The DAFC's 2022 program, however, was much more dynamic.

In our worldview, economic empowerment involves supporting individual stakeholders and fostering a culture of collaboration that solves complex problems.

Internally, the DAFC's reconstituted board of directors included educators, business executives, elected officials, entrepreneurs, and community members. Mixing many points of view challenged us to learn from each other, invigorating our decision-making.

Externally, the DAFC leaned into ground-zero challenges—workforce housing, for example. We regarded this not as an intractable problem but as an opportunity to generate new ideas for solutions that would be a boon to our businesses and our communities.

We also committed to more direct involvement with under-resourced, often overlooked neighborhoods and small businesses. Both have weathered some of the toughest economic challenges in decades. Despite societal inequities that exacerbated the COVID crisis for them, they persevered. Their stories of resilience and tough-mindedness inspired us.

The Fulton County Board of Commissioners, elected leaders, and municipalities throughout Fulton County contributed immeasurably to our accomplishments.

Thank you all for your confidence in the DAFC as a resource and for serving as resources yourselves. I welcome your continued investment in our partnership.

Boldly advancing,

Michel M. Turpeau

Driving Economic
Empowerment

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Dear friends,

How refreshing and stimulating it was during 2022 to be involved in economic development projects, which began a new era of economic development with a focus on community benefits for communities throughout Fulton County.

Emerging from the pandemic, the DAFC set aside time to reflect and reimagine the organization as better equipped to capitalize on new opportunities and be a more intentional economic development partner.

In addition to reviewing and enhancing internal processes and operations, we began the expansion of the organization by considering the addition of new team members to expand our reach. We also began more community partnership efforts through constructive community engagement (see Empowering through Partnerships on page 22). For example, the DAFC initiated a Strategic Initiative Community Grant Program to invest in select organizations whose initiatives are making a difference in at least one of the grant program's four focus areas: housing and infrastructure, jobs and workforce development, small business growth, and education.

Inaugural grant recipients included The Ke'nekt Cooperative in Atlanta's West End community. This grant supports Ke'nekt's economic empowerment intervention strategy, including providing a cooperative space that fosters business education and growth. The Atlanta Land Trust affordable housing development and the Bobby Dodd Institute Bridge Academy were also grant recipients.

These are extraordinary times for building bridges that deliver change through inspired leadership and relationships. Won't you join us as we continue our commitment to service, innovation, and economic development?

Thank you,

Potential Jobs

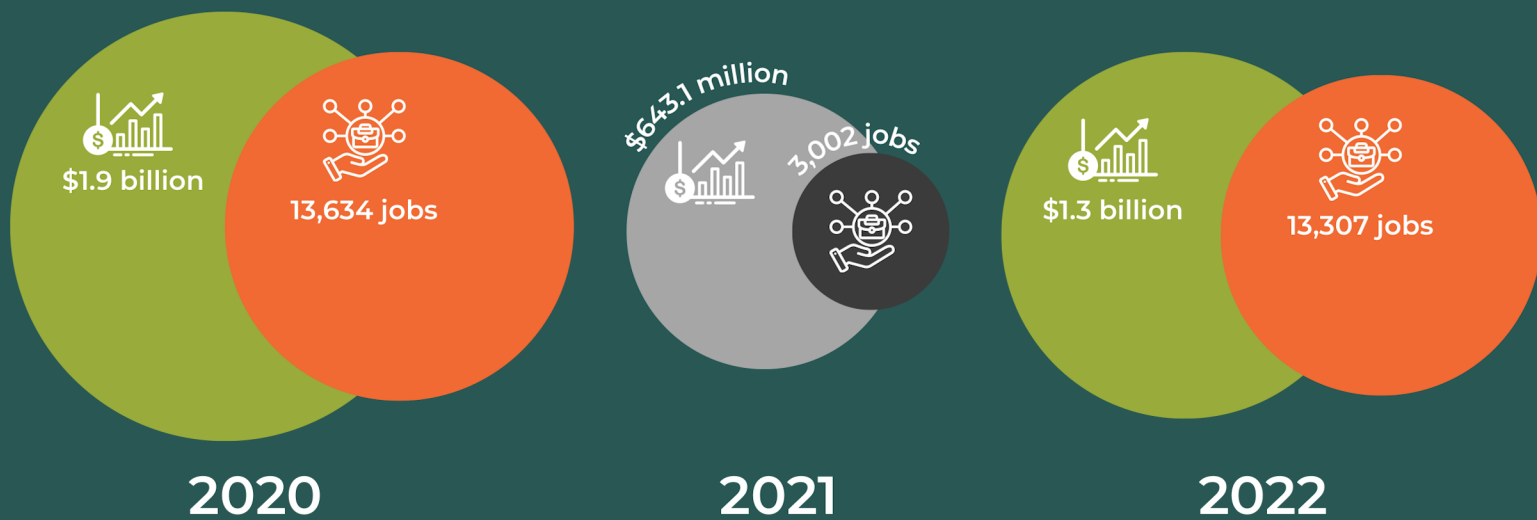

Bond financing facilitated by the Development Authority of Fulton County drives venture activity, activating a new wave of dynamic post-Covid growth and development throughout Fulton County.

The DAFC issues taxable and tax-exempt revenue bonds for qualified economic development projects. The bond option empowers companies and institutions to buy land, build new facilities, expand existing spaces, upgrade equipment, and make other investments, often reducing the overall cost of financing these activities.

DAFC-supported projects and partnerships are energizing and lifting up Fulton County communities. Among other positives, investment activity delivers new workforce housing, increases high-value employment opportunities, and attracts complementary sustainable development.

BOND INDUCEMENTS

In 2022, the DAFC approved 11 bond inducement resolutions, the first step of the DAFC's two-step approval process. These inducements represent $1.3 billion in potential capital investments in Fulton County and may account for the creation or retention of approximately 13,307 jobs, including construction-related jobs, once these transactions close and construction is completed.

By comparison, DAFC inducement resolutions in 2021 totaled $643.1 million in potential capital investments in Fulton County and accounted for creating or retaining a projected 3,002 jobs. Bond inducement resolutions in 2020 totaled $1.9 billion in potential capital investments in Fulton County and accounted for the creation or retention of a projected 13,634 jobs.

Driving Economic
Empowerment

2022 ECONOMIC IMPACT

The Development Authority of Fulton County engaged Ernst & Young (EY) to estimate the economic and tax contributions of DAFC-facilitated projects that received property tax incentives in 2022. Governments provide tax incentives with the expectation of generating new economic activity. The following information presents EY's estimates of the financial and tax benefits associated with active projects in Fulton County that received a property tax incentive through the DAFC's Revenue Bond Program.

EY's analysis includes the Direct, Indirect, and Induced economic contributions of employment, labor income, output, and taxes of active incentive projects.

PROJECT SPOTLIGHTS

SHEPHERD CENTER

The Arthur M. Blank Family Residences & the Marcus Center for Advanced Rehabilitation

The Arthur M. Blank Family Residences is a mixed-use temporary housing facility at 1860-1874 Peachtree Rd. More than half of Shepherd Center's patients come from outside of Georgia, and this building doubles Shepherd Center's housing capacity, adding 160 new accessible units and enabling more patients and families to choose Shepherd Center and Atlanta for specialized rehabilitation. Families and day program patients can stay in donor-funded housing for the entire duration of their loved one's or their stay, receive family training, and ease the financial burden of finding lodging elsewhere.

The Marcus Center for Advanced Rehabilitation is a multi-use building that will enable Shepherd Center to pursue projects and programs to increase outpatient and inpatient access, including adding 48 beds, allowing the hospital to serve hundreds more patients annually. The building will also house a 30,000-square-foot Innovation Institute where researchers and clinicians will explore real-world applications of research and technology.

The support of the Development Authority of Fulton County to enable tax-exempt borrowing to supplement donor contributions and hospital investments in constructing two new buildings helps Shepherd Center deliver life-renewing rehabilitation and help for thousands of patients and families as they begin again after catastrophic injury or illness.

On behalf of our patients, their families, our staff, and those who champion our mission, we sincerely appreciate the Development Authority's support of Shepherd Center both now and throughout its history.

SCIENCE SQUARE

Taking shape in Atlanta's West Midtown neighborhood is a massive, master-planned development heralded as a breakthrough to propel Atlanta as a hub for life sciences and biomedical innovation. The 18-acre, mixed-use Science Square district, dedicated to biomedical research and technology, will deliver 1.8 million square feet of Class A lab and office space and support parking, 500 residential units, and 25,000 square feet in retail space and area infrastructure improvements. Located adjacent to the Georgia Tech campus, the multi-phase development is a joint venture between Trammel Crow Company (TCC), Trammel Crow's residential subsidiary, High Street Residential, and Georgia Advanced Technology Venture, a cooperative organization of the Georgia Institute of Technology. TCC will provide a Community Educational Grant to support job training, education, and outreach.

JONESBORO ROAD SENIOR VILLAGE

Residents of the new Jonesboro Road Senior Village in the City of South Fulton will enjoy modern household and project amenities in an affordable, three-story senior housing complex. Situated on a 10-acre lot, the complex has 110 living units, including one- and two-bedroom options, accessible via an elevator and all equipped with modern appliances. The development offerings include a covered drop-off area, computer center, community space, and sheltered pavilion with picnic/barbecue facilities. Jonesboro Road Senior Village also provides 162 parking slots. The complex is conveniently located near Interstate 85, providing easy access to healthcare, shopping, and recreational areas.

I am so proud to be part of the team that is delivering high-quality, affordable housing for citizens who are 62 years or older in the City of South Fulton. This project generated significant construction jobs. In addition, the residents of this community will patronize local businesses and further stimulate the economy in this part of Fulton County.

EMPOWERING THROUGH PARTNERSHIPS

Partnerships and collaboration were critical in capitalizing on development opportunities in 2022. All stakeholders — public and private, from investors and economic development organizations to governments and constituent communities — were well served by these activities of mutual engagement and support.

In 2022, the DAFC continued to join forces with development authorities in neighboring Clayton, DeKalb, Douglas, Henry, and Rockdale counties under the auspices of the Joint Development Authority of Metropolitan Atlanta to pursue a regional approach to economic development.

Among other benefits, the Joint Development Authority provided a forum for member authorities to address diverse common issues and opportunities.

Through sponsorships, speaking opportunities, memberships, private conversations, and active listening, we embraced new ways to share information and resources, deepen our insight into barriers and opportunities in communities throughout Fulton County, and plan more strategically, helping all of us continue recovering from the lingering economic consequences of the COVID 19 pandemic.

Collectively, our efforts empowered all stakeholders to seize the future with renewed vigor and confidence.
